

Discussion Forum
Chunduri Manohar
190010013, CSE

The preferred way to write tests in Django is using the unit-test module built-in to the Python standard library.

We can create some set of positive and negative test cases for every layer (Models, Views ,Controllers). We assert the actual responses and expected responses.

We can use the django-performance-testing library to test the performance of the API.